

MULTITASKING HOMEWARES

September 28, 2009

The time has finally come to stop washing Little C in the bathroom sink. He's 15 months old now (how did that happen?!) and we almost have to oil him to get him out of the teeny tiny basin. In our new apartment we don't have a bath, and I don't really want to buy a baby bath ? after all, what on earth do I do with it once he's finished with that! Space is at too much of premium to just store things. So I've taken the plunge and bought a Tubtrug from the Australian storage mecca of Howards Storage World. I know some of you probably have a Tubtrug already to store toys, but I was won over by the new shallow design (and that sunny yellow). It kind of reminded me of the paddling pools I had as a child and thought it would make the perfect bath? and washing basket, and toy storage?

-Natalie

Category: Baby, Children's spaces, Equipment, For Kids, Home, Storage

NATALIE | 8 COMMENTS
